Triodos Bank N.V. (Triodos Bank) is offering through Stichting Administratiekantoor Aandelen Triodos Bank (the Issuer) up to 4,000,000 depository receipts in registered form (the Depository Receipts) in respect of ordinary shares in registered form with a nominal value of EUR 50 each (the Shares) in the capital of Triodos Bank (the Offering). The NAV is equal to the book value of the assets of Triodos Bank minus the book value of the liabilities of Triodos Bank. The Issue Price per Depository Receipt will be rounded to whole euros, whereby values of 0.5 euros or more are rounded up. During certain periods, the Issue Price may be fixed for campaigning purposes. The applicable Issue Price can be requested from Triodos Bank daily and is also published on its country websites. Allocations will be made by the statutory members of the executive board of Triodos Bank (the Executive Board) on behalf of the Issuer. The allocation policy will take into account the importance of a balanced spread of the holdings of Depository Receipts. Furthermore, the number of Depository Receipts held directly or indirectly by any one Depository Receipt Holder will be limited to a maximum of just under 10% of the total number of issued Depository Receipts. The Executive Board is authorised on behalf of the Issuer to refuse subscriptions on Depository Receipts or to only allocate a limited number. In addition, the Executive Board can resolve at any time to limit, suspend or exclude the issue of Depository Receipts. Section D – Risks
D.4	Key information on the key risks that are specific to the issuer of the underlying shares	Risks relating to Triodos Bank and the industry in which it operates in general <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Triodos Bank may be forced to assume shortfalls upon the bankruptcy of financial institutions pursuant to existing and new deposit guarantee schemes ('DGS') in The Netherlands and the European Union. Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of interventions by regulatory authorities. • Triodos Bank's operations support complex transactions and are highly dependent on the proper functioning of information technology and communication systems. Any failure of its information technology or communications systems could have a material adverse effect on its results and reputation. • As with the banking sector in general, Triodos Bank's liabilities to its clients exceed Triodos Bank's liquid assets. In particular, Triodos Bank is dependent on client deposits and savings accounts, and a sudden shortage of these funds could increase Triodos Bank's cost of funding.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> As a credit institution, Triodos Bank is exposed to the creditworthiness of third parties. Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk that third parties owing it money, securities or other assets will not perform their obligations. In Triodos Bank's case, these parties include Triodos Bank's trading counter parties, clients, exchanges, clearing houses and other financial institutions. These parties may default on their obligations to Triodos Bank due to lack of liquidity, operational failure, bankruptcy or for other reasons. This risk arises in a variety of contexts, including in connection with derivative contracts. Triodos Bank operates in an industry that is highly regulated. There could be an adverse change or increase in the financial services laws and/or regulations governing Triodos Bank's business. Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of a loss of Triodos Bank's management team and key employees. Losing the services of one or more members of the management team could adversely affect Triodos Bank. Risks specifically relating to the business and circumstances of Triodos Bank <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Triodos Bank is active in a limited number of sectors. This causes a credit risk concentration and therefore a higher vulnerability of Triodos Bank to a downturn in those sectors. Triodos Bank is a relative small, full service financial institution with an international scope, a diverse product portfolio and with an average autonomic growth of approximately 20% a year over the last years. This poses challenges to the organisation as it relies on a relative small number of senior managers. Not being able to manage its growth and meeting regulatory requirements within its control framework may lead to an adverse impact on Triodos Bank's business objectives and could negatively influence its financial results. Triodos Bank is mainly financed by funds entrusted from its customers and is not active in the money- and capital markets for its funding. In times of prolonged and severe liquidity stress it may prove to be difficult for Triodos Bank to access the money- and capital markets. This could lead to a relatively high cost of funding because Triodos Bank has no current presence and track record in those funding markets. This could have a negative impact on the financial results of Triodos Bank.
D.5	Key information about the depository receipts	Risks relating to the Depository Receipts and the Offering Trading in the Depository Receipts is only possible on a limited basis and accordingly investors may have to wait before they can sell their Depository Receipts or may not be able to sell the Depository Receipts at or above the price paid for them.

Section E – Offer
E.1	Net proceeds and estimated expenses	The total amount of the proceeds depends on the number of Depository Receipts sold. The maximum total net proceeds will be approximately EUR 332,000,000. The maximum costs involved with the issue of the Depository Receipts will be

		approximately EUR 400,000. Estimated expenses charged to the investor: See E.7 below.
E.2a	Reasons for offer	The Issuer intends to use the net proceeds from the Offering of the Depository Receipts entirely for the purchase of Shares in Triodos Bank. The Offering is intended to support Triodos Bank's growth in financing sustainable business by providing sufficient capital to meet Triodos Bank's own solvency requirement. Net Asset Value is a generally accepted accounting concept which is presented as a single definable entity. However, it concerns only a representation of the underlying reality which always carries elements of uncertainty. A recovery price procedure has been determined in case a mistake has been made in the calculation of the Issue Price of the Depository Receipts. During certain periods, the Issue Price may be fixed for campaigning purposes. Discounts on the purchase price can be available in certain periods. RISK FACTORS

Before investing in the Depository Receipts, prospective investors should consider carefully the following risks and uncertainties in addition to the other information presented in this Prospectus. The Issuer believes that the following risk factors are specific to the industry in which Triodos Bank operates, to Triodos Bank or to Triodos Bank's business, as well as to the Depository Receipts. If any of the following risks actually occurs, Triodos Bank's business, results of operations or financial condition could be materially adversely affected. In that event, the value of the Depository Receipts could decline, and an investor might lose part or all of the investor's investment. In addition, prospective investors should realise that in the event two or more risks and/or uncertainties materialise simultaneously or accumulate, Triodos Bank's business, results of operations or financial condition could be even more adversely affected and the value of the Depository Receipts could further decline. Although the Issuer believes that the risks and uncertainties described below are Triodos Bank's material risks and uncertainties, they are not the only ones Triodos Bank faces. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to the Issuer or that the Issuer currently does not deem material may also have a material adverse effect on Triodos Bank's business, results of operations or financial condition and could negatively affect the price of the Depository Receipts.

Prospective investors should read the detailed information set out elsewhere in this Prospectus and should reach their own views before making an investment decision with respect to any Depository Receipts. Furthermore, before making an investment decision with respect to any Depository Receipts, prospective investors should consult their own stockbroker, bank manager, lawyer, auditor or other financial, legal and tax advisers and carefully review the risks associated with an investment in the Depository Receipts and consider such an investment decision in light of the prospective investor's personal circumstances.

Risks relating to Triodos Bank and the industry in which it operates in general

A downturn in the markets in which Triodos Bank operates (as well as other markets around the world) could adversely affect Triodos Bank's business

As a private bank, Triodos Bank's business is materially affected by conditions in the financial markets and economic conditions generally, both in Triodos Bank's home markets of The Netherlands, Belgium, Spain, Germany and the United Kingdom as well as elsewhere around the world. In the event of a prolonged market downturn, Triodos Bank's business could be adversely affected. Depending on Triodos Bank's ability to reduce expenses at the same pace, Triodos Bank's profit margin could erode and Triodos Bank's profitability could be damaged. Also, Triodos Bank's financial condition and cash flow could be affected and the rates of loan defaults may become higher.

Triodos Bank can be obliged to contribute to the deposit guarantee schemes

Triodos Bank may be forced to assume shortfalls upon the bankruptcy of financial institutions pursuant to existing and new deposit guarantee schemes ('DGS') in The Netherlands and the European Union. A default by, or even concerns about a default by, one or more financial services institutions could lead to significant systemic liquidity problems, or losses or defaults by other financial institutions, which could have a material adverse effect on the Triodos Bank's liquidity, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of interventions by regulatory authorities

On 6 May 2014, the Council of the European Union adopted the Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive ('BRRD'). As per 26 November 2015, the BRRD establishes a policy framework for managing, amongst others, ailing banks and large investment firms ('institutions') established in the European Union. The BRRD has been transposed into national law. The BRRD requires Member States to provide their designated resolution authorities with certain resolution tools in respect of ailing institutions, including the power to transfer their shares and assets to another party and the power to write down their debt (or to convert such debt into equity). These tools are aimed at strengthening the financial position of the affected institutions and allow such institutions to continue as a going concern subject to appropriate restructuring. The use of these tools could disrupt the rights of the General Meeting and creditors of Triodos Bank and could adversely affect the proper performance by Triodos Bank of its payment and other obligations against the Issuer and (consequently) the Depository Receipt Holders.

The Single Resolution Mechanism-regulation ('SRM') provides uniform rules and procedures for the resolution of ailing banks which are part of the Banking Union. Triodos Bank is part of the Banking Union. Under the SRM, a Single Resolution Board will be authorised to adopt a resolution scheme in respect of an ailing bank, including resolution measures similar as provided for under the BRRD. The national resolution authorities will however remain responsible for implementing any resolution measures pursuant to the SRM by making use of the powers conferred on them by the national law transposing the BRRD. The SRM is fully applicable as of 1 January 2016. The use of these resolution measures could disrupt the rights of the General Meeting and creditors of Triodos Bank and could adversely affect the proper performance by Triodos Bank of its payment and other obligations against the Issuer and (consequently) the Depository Receipt Holders.

Through the coming into force of the Dutch Intervention Act (Wet bijzondere maatregelen financiële ondernemingen) of 13 June 2012 (the 'Dutch Intervention Act'), the Dutch Central Bank (de Nederlandse Bank, DNB) had been granted the power to take various measures in respect of banks and insurance companies if it perceives signs of a dangerous development regarding the entity's own funds, solvency or liquidity and it can reasonably be foreseen that this development cannot be sufficiently or timely reversed. The national framework for intervention by DNB has however been amended by the law implementing the BRRD, which entered into force on 26 November 2015. However, the scope of the powers granted to the Dutch Minister of Finance under the Dutch Intervention Act has remained as it was. The Dutch Minister of Finance may, with immediate effect, take measures or expropriate assets of or securities issued by or with the cooperation of a financial firm (financiële onderneming) or its parent, in each case if it has its corporate seat in The Netherlands, if in the Minister's opinion the stability of the financial system is in serious and immediate danger as a result of the situation in which the financial firm finds itself. Provisions of Dutch law and the financial firm's articles of association may be set aside. In the case of expropriation, the beneficiary of the relevant asset will be compensated for any damage that directly and necessarily results from the expropriation. It is unlikely that such compensation will cover all losses of the relevant beneficiary. The application of the Dutch Intervention Act could materially and adversely affect the rights and effective remedies of Depository Receipt Holders, as they could lose ownership over the Depository Receipts or become Depository Receipt Holders of an empty entity or a bad bank. In the latter case, the Depository Receipts could be of less or no value and less or no dividend could be paid. Changes in regulation with respect to solvency and resolution, currently under discussion, may result in higher required capital and/or required eligible liabilities.

Triodos Bank's operations support complex transactions and are highly dependent on the proper functioning of information technology and communication systems. Any failure of its information technology or communications systems could have a material adverse effect on its results and reputation

Triodos Bank relies heavily on its operational processes and communication and information systems to conduct its business, including (without limitation) to determine the pricing of its products, the required level of provisions and the acceptable level of risk exposure and to maintain accurate records, customer services and compliance with its reporting obligations. Any interruption in Triodos Bank's ability to rely on its internal (or outsourced) IT services or deterioration in the performance of these services could impair the timing and quality of Triodos Bank's services to its customers and result in loss of customers, inefficient or detrimental transaction processing and regulatory non-compliance, all of which could also damage Triodos Bank's brands and reputation. The occurrence of any of these events could have a material adverse effect on Triodos Bank's business, revenue, results and financial condition.

In addition, even though back-up and recovery systems and contingency plans are in place and legacy removal and upgrading (quality improvement) of its systems are in process to update old systems and infrastructure, Triodos Bank cannot assure investors that interruptions, failures or breaches in security of these processes and systems will not occur or, if they do occur, that they will be adequately addressed.

Furthermore, Triodos Bank is exposed to cybercrime risks. Login credentials of customers, intermediaries and employees may be intercepted by cyber criminals (e.g. Trojan on PC). This could lead to abuse of information and harm Triodos Bank's reputation. Any interruptions, failures or breaches in security of these processes and systems could also result in a loss of customers and/or materially adversely affect Triodos Bank's ability to compete with its competitors.

Triodos Bank faces substantial competitive pressures in a mature market

There is substantial competition on Triodos Bank's home markets for the types of banking and other products and services which Triodos Bank provides. Competition in the financial services industry, especially in the banking sector, is increased by the high level of consolidation in these countries and the relatively mature nature of the markets in which Triodos Bank operates. Triodos Bank faces competition from various national and international financial institutions which are also active in the financial services industry. Triodos Bank is a medium sized financial services provider and a number of its competitors are larger in size. If Triodos Bank is unable to offer competing, attractive, and innovative products and services that are also profitable, if it does not choose the right strategy or if it does not implement a strategy successfully, Triodos Bank could lose market share and/or incur losses on some or all of its activities and/or experience slower growth. Consumer demand, technological changes, regulatory changes and actions and other factors also affect competition. Competitive pressures could result in increased pricing pressures.

Volatility in interest rates may negatively affect Triodos Bank's net interest income and may have other adverse consequences

For the year ended 31 December 2016, 65% of Triodos Bank's total income consisted of interest income. Interest rates are highly sensitive to many factors beyond Triodos Bank's control, including monetary policies and domestic and international economic and political conditions. As with any bank, changes in market interest rates could affect the interest rates Triodos Bank charges on Triodos Bank's interest-earning assets differently than the interest rates Triodos Bank pays on Triodos Bank's interest-bearing liabilities. This may have an adverse effect on Triodos Bank's net interest income, Triodos Bank's financial condition and/or Triodos Bank's results of operations.

Volatility in currency exchange rates may negatively affect Triodos Bank's net income

Triodos Bank does financial transactions in currencies other than the euro. Also the UK branch of Triodos Bank does its business in pound sterling. Although Triodos Bank has a policy to hedge and mitigate any positions in currencies other than the euro, volatility in currency exchange rates may result in losses on positions Triodos Bank holds and negatively affect its net income.

As with the banking sector in general, Triodos Bank's liabilities to its clients exceed Triodos Bank's liquid assets. In particular, Triodos Bank is dependent on client deposits and savings accounts, and a sudden shortage of these funds could increase Triodos Bank's cost of funding or lead to non-compliance of regulatory commitments

Historically, Triodos Bank's principal sources of funds have been client deposits, savings and current accounts and Triodos Bank aims to maintain this situation. However, a sudden shortfall of these savings accounts might lead to a gap in Triodos Bank's funding. Triodos Bank can fill this possible gap with alternative funding including bond issues and other products. Triodos Bank can also borrow money in the money markets. These alternative sources of funding in many cases prove to be more expensive or in other ways less advantageous than client deposits. Thus, increased reliance on these sources could negatively impact Triodos Bank's financial condition and/or results of operations. Also, insufficient availability of cash flows would mean that Triodos Bank may not be able to meet all of Triodos Bank's short-term financial commitments or could lead to non-compliance of regulatory commitments.

Triodos Bank is exposed to credit risk and risk of non-recovery

As a credit institution, Triodos Bank is exposed to the creditworthiness of third parties. Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk that third parties owing it money, securities or other assets will not perform their obligations. In Triodos Bank's case, these parties include Triodos Bank's trading counter parties, clients, exchanges, clearing houses and other financial institutions. These parties may default on their obligations to Triodos Bank due to lack of liquidity, operational failure, bankruptcy or for other reasons. This risk arises in a variety of contexts, including in connection with derivative contracts.

Despite Triodos Bank's conservative approach in assessing the necessary provisions for possible bad and doubtful debts, Triodos Bank cannot assure that Triodos Bank's level of provisions will be adequate or that Triodos Bank will not have to make significant additional provisions for possible bad and doubtful debts in future periods.

Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of ineffective systems and processes, and interruption, failure or breach thereof

In the conduct of Triodos Bank's business, Triodos Bank relies heavily on its operational processes, and communication and information systems. Triodos Bank cannot ensure that interruptions, failures or breaches in security of the extensive back-up recovery systems and contingency plans that Triodos Bank has in place will not occur. Similarly, Triodos Bank cannot guarantee that if any of these do occur that they will be adequately addressed. Any such interruptions, failures or breaches, even for a limited period of time, could result in, for example:

- interruptions in the services offered or information provided to customers, or inability to serve customers' needs in a timely fashion
- interruptions or errors in Triodos Bank's management information and/or information reported to supervisory authorities
- Triodos Bank being unable to report accurate information in a timely manner and thus being in violation of applicable regulations
- inability to identify in time or at all, inadequate, fraudulent, negligent and/or unauthorised dealings by Triodos Bank's employees or third parties, or telecommunication connection failures or hacking of Triodos Bank's website portal
- considerable costs in terms of, for example, information retrieval and verification

Triodos Bank's business operations are also vulnerable to interruption from fire, flood, bomb threats, explosions or other forms of terrorist activity and natural and man-made disasters. The same may apply for third parties on which Triodos Bank depends. Furthermore, Triodos Bank cannot assure that interruptions, failures or breaches of Triodos Bank's communication and information systems as a result of external fraud will not occur or, if they do occur, that they will be adequately addressed.

Triodos Bank operates in an industry that is highly regulated. There could be an adverse change or increase in the financial services laws and/or regulations governing Triodos Bank's business

Triodos Bank's business is regulated and supervised by several supervisory authorities in its home markets. Laws and regulations applied at national level generally grant supervisory authorities broad administrative discretion over Triodos Bank's activities, including the power to limit or restrict business activities. It is possible that laws and regulations governing Triodos Bank's business or particular products and services could be amended or interpreted in a manner that is adverse to Triodos Bank, for example, to the extent that existing laws and regulations are amended or future laws and regulations are adopted that (i) reduce or restrict the sale of the products and services Triodos Bank offers, whether existing or new, or (ii) negatively affect the performance of the products and services Triodos Bank offers, whether existing or new. Triodos Bank's revenues and costs, profitability and available or required regulatory capital could also be affected by an increase or change in the degree of regulation in any of the markets in which Triodos Bank operates, whether existing or new. Due to the continuously growth of the regulatory pressure and the complexity of the regulatory environment in which Triodos Bank operates, it will entail more costs to ensure that Triodos Bank is, and will continue to be, in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations at all times, to the extent that the volume of regulation increases and the scope of the activities changes.

If Triodos Bank would be in breach of any existing or new laws or regulations now or in the future, Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of intervention by regulatory authorities, including investigation and surveillance, and judicial or administrative proceedings. In addition, Triodos Bank's reputation could suffer and Triodos Bank could be fined or prohibited from engaging in some of its business activities or be sued by customers if it does not comply with applicable laws or regulations.

Triodos Bank is exposed to legal risks that may arise in the conduct of Triodos Bank's business and the outcome of related legal claims may be difficult to predict

Triodos Bank faces significant legal risks in the conduct of its business. These legal risks could potentially involve, but are not limited to, disputes over the terms of transactions in which Triodos Bank acts as principal, intermediary or otherwise, disputes concerning the adequacy or enforceability of documents relating to Triodos Bank's products or services or transactions entered into by Triodos Bank, disputes regarding the terms and conditions of complex arrangements and products, disputes regarding the independence of Triodos Bank's research, and irregularities with regard to the sale of structured products and services. Triodos Bank faces risks relating to investment suitability determinations, disclosure obligations, performance expectations, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations with respect to the products and services it provides, which could lead to significant losses or reputational damage. Companies in Triodos Bank's industry are increasingly exposed to collective claims (with or without merit) from groups of customers or consumer organisations seeking damages of unspecified or indeterminate amounts or involving novel legal claims. These risks are often difficult to assess or quantify and their existence and magnitude often remain unknown for substantial periods of time. It is inherently difficult to predict the outcome of many of the future claims, regulatory proceedings and other adversarial proceedings involving Triodos Bank.

Triodos Bank is exposed to risks of employee misconduct

Triodos Bank, as a financial institution, handles large amounts of money, customer data and privileged information and is therefore highly dependent on the honesty and integrity of its employees. In addition, regulation relating to financial abuse, including money laundering and funding of activities that could be considered to be terrorist activities, has become considerably stricter in many jurisdictions, with effects that are increasingly severe for financial institutions. As a consequence, it is becoming increasingly important that Triodos Bank's employees adhere to the policies it imposes as a result of these regulations. Triodos Bank faces a risk of loss due to errors, negligent behaviour, lack of knowledge or wilful violation of rules and regulations by its employees. Misconduct by employees could include binding Triodos Bank to transactions that exceed authorised limits or present unacceptable risks, or hiding from it unauthorised or unsuccessful activities, which, in either case, could result in unknown and unmanaged risks and losses. Employee misconduct could also involve the improper use or disclosure of confidential information, which could result in regulatory sanctions and serious financial losses. Employee misconduct in any form could also result in significant damage to Triodos Bank's reputation, which could in turn hinder Triodos Bank's ability to retain existing customers or compete for new business. It is not always possible to deter and detect employee misconduct, and the precautions Triodos Bank takes to prevent and detect this activity (such as pre- and in-employment screening) may not be effective in all cases.

A significant portion of Triodos Bank's business relates to Triodos Bank's dealings with third parties

A significant portion of Triodos Bank's business relates to products and services which Triodos Bank offers in co-operation with third parties or in relation to which Triodos Bank depends on third parties, for example for the distribution of such products and services. Triodos Bank cannot guarantee that these third parties will continue their co-operation with Triodos Bank or that the relationships with these third parties will continue to be beneficial. Negative publicity about these third parties, whether or not founded, could also harm Triodos Bank's reputation.

Triodos Bank may be exposed to failures in its risk management systems

Triodos Bank invests substantial time and effort in its strategies and procedures for managing risks such as credit risk, concentration risk, strategic risk, foreign exchange risk, interest rate risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, compliance risk and conduct of business risk. These strategies and procedures could nonetheless fail or not be fully effective under some circumstances, particularly if Triodos Bank is confronted with risks that it has not fully or adequately identified or anticipated. Some of Triodos Bank's methods for managing risk are based upon observations of historical market behaviour. Quantifications of some of Triodos Bank's risk exposures are arrived at by Triodos Bank through the application of statistical techniques to these observations. These statistical methods may not accurately quantify Triodos Bank's risk exposure if circumstances arise which were not observed in Triodos Bank's historical data. For example, as Triodos Bank offers new products or services, the historical data may be incomplete or not accurate for such new products or services. As Triodos Bank gains more experience it may need to make additional provisions.

If circumstances arise that Triodos Bank did not identify, anticipate or correctly evaluate in developing its statistical models, Triodos Bank's losses could be greater than the maximum losses envisaged by Triodos Bank. Furthermore, the quantifications do not take all risks or market conditions into account. If the measures used to assess and mitigate risk prove insufficient, Triodos Bank may experience unanticipated losses.

Triodos Bank is exposed to the risk of a loss of Triodos Bank's management team and key employees

Triodos Bank's future success depends in part on having a capable management team. Losing the services of one or more members of the management team could adversely affect Triodos Bank. The implementation and execution of Triodos Bank's strategic plans depend in part on the continued availability of key qualified personnel, throughout Triodos Bank. No assurance can be given that Triodos Bank will be successful in the future in attracting and retaining, on acceptable terms, such personnel.

Risks specifically relating to the business and circumstances of Triodos Bank

Triodos Bank is active in a limited number of sectors

Based on its business model, Triodos Bank is active in a limited number of sectors that support its mission statement, like the environmental sector, the cultural sector and the social sector.

In addition especially these sectors are also depending on volatile regulations (amongst others with respect to grants and tax benefits). The elimination of a grant and/or a tax benefit could cause a downturn in the respective sector and possibly, credit losses for Triodos Bank.

These factors causing a credit risk concentration and therefore a higher vulnerability of Triodos Bank to a downturn in those sectors. In such circumstances Triodos Bank may have to make significant additional provisions for bad and doubtful debts, negatively impacting its financial results.

The concentration risk is mitigated by expanding the number of (sub-) sectors Triodos Bank operates in and the spread of Triodos Bank's loan portfolio over the different countries in which it is active.

Customers expect Triodos Bank to act true to its mission and sustainable reputation

In addition to the trust that the money deposited with Triodos Bank will be repaid, Triodos Bank's customers also expect it to follow its mission statement in being a truly sustainable bank and in maintaining high standards of integrity. Not meeting those expectations could negatively impact the liquidity position of Triodos Bank through an outflow of funds from disappointed customers.

Triodos Bank is a relatively small, fast growing organisation, dependent on a relatively small group of senior managers

Triodos Bank is a relatively small, full service financial institution with an international scope, a diverse product portfolio and with - over the last years - an average autonomous growth of approximately 20% a year. This poses challenges to the organisation as it relies on a relative small number of senior managers. Not being able to manage its growth and meeting regulatory requirements within its control framework may lead to an adverse impact on Triodos Bank's business objectives and could negatively influence its financial results.

Triodos Bank is mainly financed by funds entrusted from its customers and is not active on the money- and capital markets for its funding

In times of prolonged and severe liquidity stress it may prove to be difficult for Triodos Bank to access the money- and capital markets. This could lead to a relatively high cost of funding because Triodos Bank has no current presence and track record in those funding markets. This could have a negative impact on the financial results of Triodos Bank.

Triodos Bank has branches in five European countries and is therefore vulnerable to changes in local laws and circumstances

Triodos Bank has branches in five European countries. Changes in local laws, a default of a certain country may have a negative impact on the financial results of Triodos Bank. Brexit - and possibly an exit from the Euro zone of another country - may have a negative impact on the financial results of Triodos Bank as well.

Risks relating to the Depository Receipts and the Offering

Trading in the Depository Receipts is only possible on a limited basis and accordingly investors may have to wait before they can sell their Depository Receipts or may not be able to sell the Depository Receipts at or above the price paid for them

The transfer of the Depository Receipts is subject to restrictions. The Depository Receipts are not listed on a securities exchange nor does a similar public market for Depository Receipts exist. Triodos Bank maintains a platform for transactions against net asset value for the Depository Receipts whereby the price is determined each day in accordance with a fixed calculation model based on the actual NAV of Triodos Bank. The internal market for the Depository Receipts of Triodos Bank inter alia depends on outstanding demand for and offer of Depository Receipts. Each year the Executive Board asks for an authorisation of the General Meeting to acquire Depository Receipts to a maximum of 2% of the outstanding shares of Triodos Bank. The question whether or not Triodos Bank will purchase Depository Receipts offered for sale is at the sole discretion of Triodos Bank and Triodos Bank will at no point in time be obliged to purchase Depository Receipts offered for sale. Investors may therefore during a long period of time not be able to sell or otherwise dispose of their Depository Receipts and/or to sell their Depository Receipts for their presumed value.

Triodos Bank may not be able to pay dividends in the future

Triodos Bank's results could fluctuate and Triodos Bank's ability to pay dividends may be dependent on Triodos Bank achieving sufficient profits. In any event, there is no obligation for Triodos Bank to pay any dividends; the payment of dividends is the absolute and sole discretion of Triodos Bank at all times. The payment of dividends is further subject to statutory, regulatory, legal and financial requirements and restrictions. If dividends are not paid in the future, capital appreciation, if any, of the Depository Receipts would be the investor's sole source of gains.

Currency risk in the United Kingdom

In the UK the Offering is made in pounds sterling but the price of the Depository Receipts for shares is denominated in euros. As a result Depository Receipt Holders in the UK are affected by exchange rate risk. This may adversely affect the sterling value of any investment in Triodos Bank or the amount of dividends Depository Receipt Holders receive. In particular, investors should note that dividend payments made to UK residents are converted into pounds sterling from euros at the exchange rate on the dividend payment date. In addition when selling some or all of the Depository Receipts, conversion from euro to sterling takes place at the time of the sale.

USE OF PROCEEDS

The Issuer intends to use the net proceeds from the Offering of the Depository Receipts entirely for the purchase of Shares in Triodos Bank. The total amount of the proceeds depends on the number of Depository Receipts sold. The maximum total net proceeds will be approximately EUR. The maximum costs involved with the issue of the Depository Receipts will be approximately EUR 400,000.

The Offering is intended to support Triodos Bank's growth in financing sustainable business by providing sufficient capital to meet Triodos Bank's own solvency requirement. This will reinforce Triodos Bank's profile and further strengthen Triodos Bank's brand names.

Triodos Bank uses the proceeds of the sale of Shares to the Issuer for financing companies, institutions and projects that add cultural value and benefit people and the environment, with the support of depositors and investors who want to encourage the development of socially responsible and innovative business. The mission of Triodos Bank is to help achieve a healthier society and enhance people's quality of life, to enable individuals, institutions and businesses to use money more consciously in ways that benefit people and the environment, and promote sustainable development and to offer customers sustainable financial products and high quality service.

The Issuer and Triodos Bank would like to draw special attention to the fact that Triodos Bank maintains a platform for transactions against net asset value in Depository Receipts. If and when Depository Receipts are offered for sale Triodos Bank will execute subscriptions against these sale orders. As a result thereof it is possible that no new Depository Receipts will be issued for certain subscriptions. Accordingly, if and to the extent that subscriptions for Depository Receipts are executed against such sale orders the Issuer does not receive net proceeds and the Issuer does not purchase (additional) Shares in Triodos Bank.

Triodos Bank is subject to the large company regime (structuurregime). Under this regime, a number of traditional powers vested in the general meeting of shareholders (the General Meeting) are transferred to the Supervisory Board.

Triodos Bank has a two-tier board structure consisting of the Executive Board and a supervisory board (the Supervisory Board). Members of the Executive Board are appointed and dismissed by the Supervisory Board upon the nomination by the Supervisory Board. The Supervisory Board shall notify the General Meeting of a proposal to appoint a member of the Executive Board. Members of the Supervisory Board are appointed by the General Meeting. Capitalisation

Triodos Bank is characterised by a high degree of liquidity and is funded predominantly by deposits from private customers and small and medium sized enterprises. As a result, Triodos Bank does not rely on funding from the wholesale market. As at 31 December 2016, the balance sheet totals EUR 9,081 million, consisting of equity (EUR 904 million (10.0% of balance sheet total)) and liabilities (EUR 8,177 million (90.0% of balance sheet total)). Equity consists of EUR 554 million of share capital, EUR 151 million of share premium reserve, EUR 19 million of statutory reserve, EUR 150 million of other reserves and EUR 29 million of retained earnings.

Regarding the share capital, the authorised capital of Triodos Bank amounts to EUR 1.5 billion, divided into 30 million shares, each having a nominal value of EUR 50. On 31 December 2016, the number of shares issued to and fully paid up by the Issuer is 11,088,308. This number of shares consists of 9,686,584 shares as of 1 January 2016, an increase with 1,206,942 shares and stock dividend of 194,782 shares. The Issuer had issued 11,088,308 Depository Receipts, each with a nominal value of EUR 50. Share premium reserve includes deposits, exceeding the nominal capital, after reduction of capital transfer tax. Statutory reserves include development costs and conversion differences.

Since the founding of Triodos Bank, it has increased its capital base by issuing via the Issuer Depository Receipts to the public, using its own customer base and general marketing efforts. Triodos Bank plans to continue this policy as, until now, this method proved to provide for sufficient growth of the capital.

As at 31 December 2016, Triodos Bank did not hold any Depository Receipts.

There are no restrictions on the use of capital resources that have materially affected, or could materially affect, directly or indirectly, the operations of Triodos Bank.

Besides this capital base, Triodos Bank is funded by customers that have funds entrusted in various types of bank accounts (EUR 8,025 million). EUR 444 million of the funds entrusted can be classified with a maturity of longer than one year.

As at December 2016 the Common Equity Tier 1 ratio, an important measure of banks solvency was 19,2% (Triodos Bank aims for a Common Equity Tier 1 ratio of at least 16%). In 2015 the Common Equity Tier 1 ratio was 19.0%.

Cash inflow is mainly caused by an increase in funds entrusted (mainly savings accounts) of EUR 742 million and a share issue of EUR 97 million. Cash outflow mainly consists of an increase in loans of EUR 498 million.

In 2016, the loan portfolio grew by 9% to EUR 5,708 million (2015: EUR 5,216 million). The loan portfolio as a percentage of the total amount of funds entrusted decreased from 72% to 71% at 31 December 2016. Triodos Bank's goal is to lend between 65% and 75% of its funds entrusted. This remains an important challenge for the bank. Without short term loans to municipalities the ratio increased to 64% (2015: 62%). The remainder of the assets is mainly in banks (EUR 468 million), interest-bearing securities (EUR 1,719 million, of which 44% is in government bonds), government paper (EUR 179 million) and cash (EUR 732 million), which mainly consist of on demand deposits with central banks.

Liquidity risk refers to the risk that Triodos Bank is unable to fulfil its payment obligations to its customers and counterparties at a particular point in time without incurring unacceptable losses. Customers' savings and deposits are attracted in order to finance Triodos Bank's lending operations. The surplus is primarily placed with central banks, credit institutions or invested in deposits and bonds. Triodos Bank has a strong liquidity position and is funded almost entirely by equity and deposits from private customers and small and medium sized enterprises. As a result, Triodos Bank does not rely on funding from the wholesale money and capital markets. The liquidity position of Triodos Bank is monitored by two ratios:

- The Liquidity Coverage Ratio (LCR): to ensure an adequate level of unencumbered, high-quality assets that can be converted into cash to meet liquidity needs over a 30-day time horizon under a liquidity stress scenario specified by supervisors. The LCR ratio must be at least 100%.
- The Net Stable Funding Ratio (NSFR) indicates the relationship between available longer-term, stable funding and required longer-term, stable funding resulting from the liquidity profiles of assets and off balance sheet items. Minimum NSFR standards will be set by 2018.

As at December 2016 the LCR is 319%. The NSFR is 149%.

Regarding foreign exchange risk, Triodos Bank aims to avoid net currency positions, with the exception of those arising from strategic investments. The term positions in foreign currencies reflect mainly the currency derivatives for Triodos Investment Funds which are nearly fully hedged.

Business

Triodos Bank's principal activities since its date of incorporation are the core activities of a bank. Triodos Bank wants to connect money with quality of life, in its broadest sense, in a positive and enterprising way. For many, socially responsible enterprise lies at the heart of this effort. And sustainable banking reflects this spirit of enterprise and positive change in the banking industry.

Triodos Bank is a powerful example of sustainable banking in practice. It uses money and banking expertise to create positive solutions to social and environmental problems and is well-equipped to continue to meet these challenges. Triodos Bank wants to further involve its customers, Depository Receipt Holders and other organisations in delivering meaningful, lasting change. As well as offering these stakeholders access to a sustainable bank, it wants to provide a compelling way to take positive action to address the social and environmental issues that face us and the planet we depend on. This inclusive approach creates a broad basis of support for the social and environmental renewal at the heart of Triodos Bank's mission, and helps bridge the gap between economic developments on the one hand and the interests of people and the environment on the other. Money has a central role to play, backed by understanding, entrepreneurship and transparency.

Since its foundation, Triodos Bank has experienced substantial growth. Over the past five years, the balance sheet total grew by an average of 15% per year. Further growth is likely, in view of the interest in values-based banking in the countries where it operates. Triodos Bank aims to further increase its capital, with this issue, in order to create a basis for the expected further growth of its loan portfolio. It has no further funding requirements in addition to this equity.

Markets and our core activities

Triodos Bank wants to achieve its mission as a sustainable bank in three ways:

1. As a relationship bank

Triodos Bank's service is built on deepening and developing long-term relationships with its customers. This singular focus on relationships is shared across the organisation, while how they are developed differs as the organisation benefits from unity within the diversity of its branches and geographies. It fosters these relationships through various channels, including offices where customers meet co-workers face-to-face, by post, over the phone and increasingly via the internet. Triodos Bank's aim is to create a broad customer base that's closely connected to it – a combination of private and corporate customers who have made a conscious decision to bank with Triodos Bank. Exactly how this happens also differs in each country; its services have developed in different ways in each of the countries where it works, depending in part on the stage of development of the branches and offices in question.

2. As a sustainable service provider

Bank customers not only want sustainable products and services, but also competitive prices and a professional service. Triodos Bank believes that these key customer values cannot be seen in isolation. So it tries to offer a collective package of banking services to promote sustainable development. And it does so in the context of meaningful, transparent relationships with its customers.

Triodos Bank's commitment to meaningful relationships as a key strategic objective, leads to the development of innovative products which directly reflect the mission and values at the core of its work. Product development takes place in all countries.

3. As a reference point

Triodos Bank wants to stimulate public debate on issues such as quality of life, corporate social responsibility and sustainable banking. It also wants to use over 35 years' experience to encourage society to promote more sustainable development. The implications of this public debate extend well beyond the activities of Triodos Bank itself. Triodos Bank's vision and approach has led to international recognition. Its participation in the public debate, often through high impact events that it hosts and participates in, means people can see what Triodos Bank stands for and hear its opinions about important social trends. Triodos Bank's identity is crucial in this respect, strengthening the Triodos Bank brand and reputation.

Because Triodos Bank develops its own products and distributes them via third parties, its influence extends beyond its own community of customers. As a result its ideas about financial responsibility need to be communicated to a wider audience. Reaching a broader group supports both Triodos Bank's mission to make a positive contribution to sustainable development, and contributes to the financial return it generates.

Triodos Bank seeks to strengthen and increase its independence by broadening its customer base. Importantly, by continuing to speak directly with its existing customers, it can continue to understand and respond to its longer standing customers' needs and wishes. Being a Triodos Bank customer means more than just choosing financial products and services that benefit people, the environment and culture. It also means becoming part of a community of individuals and organisations that share similar values. As such, Triodos Bank becomes a hub to help individuals enjoy a more rewarding and authentic quality of life.

International markets

Triodos Bank is an international bank with branches in The Netherlands (since 1980), Belgium (since 1993), the United Kingdom (since 1995), Spain (since 2004) and Germany (since 2009). In addition Triodos Bank has a representative office in France (since 2012). The Head Office and statutory seat is in Zeist, The Netherlands. The key aspects of Triodos Bank's marketing activities are the same in each of these countries.

In many European countries, there is a growing public demand for a bank with the mission, experience and products and services that Triodos Bank can offer. Triodos Bank is continuously looking at other ways in which it can be active in countries where people and businesses are interested in its approach.

Recent developments

Triodos Bank's activity is split between two core divisions, Triodos Bank's savings and lending business and Triodos Investment Management, which invests through investments funds or investment institutions bearing the Triodos name and managed by Triodos Investment Management.

In 2016, Triodos Bank's total income grew by 3% to EUR 218 million (2015: EUR 212 million). Triodos Investment Management and Investment Advisory Services contributed EUR 31 million to this figure (2015: EUR 31 million). In 2016, commission income amounted to 34% (2015: 32%) of total income, in line with expectations.

The total amount of assets under management including Triodos Bank, the investment funds and Private Banking grew by EUR 1.2 billion, or 9%, to EUR 13.5 billion.

In 2016 Triodos Bank's balance sheet total grew by 11% to EUR 9.1 billion thanks to a steady growth of the funds entrusted and new capital raised during the year, in all branches. Without the devaluation of the British Pound, prompted by the results of the Brexit referendum, the growth of the balance sheet would have been 13%. This represents a very positive outcome given growth of 10% was expected.

Triodos Bank's total number of customers increased by 7%, against expected growth of between 10% and 15%, and now numbers 652,000 customers.

The net profit for 2016 was EUR 29.3 million, down by 28% (2015: 40.7 million), due to increased operating expenses as a result of the introduction of a new contribution to the Dutch Depository Guarantee System (DGS), a strengthening of the organisation to cope with the implementation of fast changing regulations and increased supervisory requirements, and investments in the development of the business.

European Branch Network (retail and business banking)

Retail activities developed further in 2016 as people and sustainable enterprises continue to choose to partner with Triodos Bank. For the reasons stated above, the branches offer a variety of products and services to meet growing demand, and increasingly offer a full set of services to their customers. This led to continuing and balanced growth in funds entrusted to Triodos Bank in 2016 by EUR 742 million, or 10%, against expected growth of approximately 10%. It also resulted in continuing growth in all the countries where Triodos Bank operates. This was due in part to a growing profile, strong relationships with customers, high quality sustainable products and services and an increasingly receptive market, keen to use their money more consciously.

Growth of the loan portfolio amounted to EUR 493 million, or 9%. Expected growth was between 5% and 15%. Investment-type loans in the public sector are included in the loan portfolio in accordance with regulations related to financial reporting. Without this the loan portfolio would have grown by approximately 14%, mainly because of the increase of the mortgage portfolio by 30%. The increase in business loans was limited to 11%. The distribution of growth over the sectors has been deliberate to achieve more diversification and to lower the risk profile of the portfolio.

Triodos Investment Management

Triodos Investment Management is responsible for 17 funds, for both individuals and institutions, totalling EUR 3.3 billion assets under management. Total growth of the investment funds was EUR 157 million, up 5% (2015:17%).

The relatively modest growth of the assets under management is in part due to Triodos Renewables plc (EUR 138 million) becoming an independent company from Triodos Bank. The company was not managed by Triodos Investment Management from March 2016 and now operates under the name Thrive Renewables. Worldwide, more and more investors realise that how they invest their money now determines what the world will look like in the future. They are increasingly opting for meaningful and measurable impact investing solutions. Triodos Investment Management sees this as a promising development in light of the many challenges the world faces today, such as climate change and increasing inequality.

Historical information on Financial Condition and Operating Results

Historical information on Triodos Bank's financial condition, changes in financial condition and results of operations for the financial years 2015 and 2014 can be found in the Executive Board report 2015 and 2014, which are part of the annual reports 2015 and 2014 incorporated by reference in this Prospectus (see the table on page 22 for more details). The abovementioned sections within the annual reports provide information on significant factors, including unusual or infrequent events or new developments, materially affecting Triodos Bank's income from operations, indicating the extent to which income was so affected; material changes in net sales or revenues, including a discussion on the reasons for such changes, and any governmental, economic, fiscal, monetary or political policies or factors that have materially affected, or could materially affect, directly or indirectly, Triodos Bank's operations.

Outlook

So far Triodos Bank's medium-term objective has been to grow the return on equity to 7% of Triodos Bank's equity in normal economic conditions. This target should be seen as a realistic, long-term average for the type of banking activity that Triodos Bank engages in. However, Triodos Bank recognised that market conditions have changed. The trend of very low interest rates and increasing regulatory costs and capital requirements continued in 2016 leading to the lower return on equity Triodos Bank had expected. Triodos Bank met its goal of a return on equity between 3% and 5% in 2016.

In the current market, while Triodos Bank will continue to work on improving its profitability, it does not expect to outperform easily this target over the next three years; not least because investments will be made in the development of its investment management activities, the launch of a current account in the UK in 2017 and the opening of a fully-fledged French office in the coming years, subject to further preparatory work and the approval of the authorities.

As capital and liquidity requirements may increase even further and given uncertain regulatory developments, Triodos Bank prefers to continue to maintain a relatively high equity base and a substantial liquidity surplus which puts additional downward pressure on the Return of Equity. In this context Triodos Bank will again aim for a Return on Equity of between 3% and 5% in 2017, and expects to be at the lower end of this band.

Excluding unforeseen circumstances, Triodos Bank expects a stable operational profit in 2017. Triodos Bank will extend its impact through a more diversified loan portfolio, quality financial services with sustainability at their core and encourage and provide finance for enterprises increasing the sustainable impact of their business. Triodos Bank recognizes that the economic downturn that has resulted from the financial crisis, and a slow recovery in some countries, will continue in 2017 and may have an additional impact on Triodos Bank's results. Because of these factors, Triodos Bank expects to deliver a stable net profit level in 2017 compared to 2016.

There are no trends in products, sales and services, and costs and selling prices since the end of 2016 to the date of this Prospectus that are significant or relevant for Triodos Bank.

A separate statement setting out the principal assumptions upon which Triodos Bank has based its profit forecast, as well as an assurance report on the profit forecast prepared by PricewaterhouseCoopers Accountants N.V., independent auditors, is provided in ANNEX I to this Prospectus (as of page 59).

Triodos Bank has links with several related parties. Ultimo 2016, the outstanding loans, including guarantees to related parties amounted to EUR 90 million. For more information see page 127 of the Annual Report 2016.

Recent new products and services

In November 2016, the Dutch branch of Triodos Bank has introduced iDIN, in cooperation with the main other Dutch banks and the Dutch Payment Association. With iDIN retail clients can identify themselves and login at online organisations that offer iDIN, using the logins means (identifier) of their banks.

In December 2015, Triodos Investment Management launched the Triodos Multi Impact Fund. This 'fund-of-funds' invests in sectors that stimulate the transition to a more sustainable society.

Material property

Triodos Bank currently owns real estate in The Netherlands, Spain and United Kingdom. There are no major encumbrances. The real estate in The Netherlands is used as an office for Triodos Bank itself. The book value at the end of 2016 was EUR 20.0 million. The real estate in Spain and United Kingdom are also used as an office for Triodos Bank itself. The book value at the end of 2016 were respectively EUR 6.2 million and EUR 16.1 million.

For an overview of leased properties we refer to page 114 of the annual accounts 2016 of Triodos Bank.

Stakeholders

Triodos Bank defines stakeholders as all people, groups and organisations with which it has a business or other relationship. Triodos Bank encourages an active dialogue with its stakeholders. A transparent approach to its activities is central to this dialogue.

Organisation and co-workers

Triodos Bank could not achieve its mission without the support, effort and commitment of its co-workers. Its reputation as a pioneering force in sustainable banking depends on co-workers who are genuinely able to identify with, and make a real contribution towards, Triodos Bank's mission. To this end, co-workers are not only closely involved in the development of new products and services for customers but also in the financial, social and environmental performance of Triodos Bank itself.

Corporate Governance

The Dutch Corporate Governance Code (the Code) does not apply directly to Triodos Bank, as the Depository Receipts are not listed on any regulated market. Nevertheless, Triodos Bank endorses the basic principles of the Code and complies with the principles and best practices of the Code. However, it has also made a well-considered decision to deviate from specific points. The first deviation relates to voting rights on Shares and appointments. To protect Triodos Bank's mission and objectives as much as possible,

Depository Receipt Holders are not allowed to exercise voting rights on the underlying Shares, which are instead exercised by the Issuer. Also, Depository Receipt Holders cannot make recommendations for appointments of members of the board of the Issuer and former Executive Board or Supervisory Board members of Triodos Bank can be appointed as members of the board of the Issuer. The second deviation relates to the term of office of the members of the Executive Board. This term is not limited to a period of four years, as Triodos Bank feels that this would not serve the long term development of the company. The third instance concerns the fact that for practical reasons, Triodos Bank has adopted a modified regime for conflicts of interest relating to cases in which it intends to enter into a transaction with a legal entity in which an Executive Board member has a management or supervisory board position. If such a conflict of interest concerns a legal entity outside the Triodos Group, and is of material importance to it, the adapted regime provides checks and balances (e.g. through the involvement of the Supervisory Board's Audit and Risk Committee) and ensures adequate transparency. The fourth deviation relates to the fact that the Supervisory Board has an integrated Nomination and Compensation Committee and thus does not provide for a separate Nomination Committee and Remuneration Committee. This is done for practical reasons, given the size of Triodos Bank. The fifth deviation relates to the maximum term for members of the Supervisory Board. In exceptional cases a Supervisory Board member may be re-appointed after the maximum term has expired. The aim is to create more time to fill vacancies, if needed. Further, Triodos Bank deviates from the Code's best practice to submit all proposals to the General Meeting for material amendments to the articles of association as separate agenda items. For practical reasons Triodos Bank wishes to retain the possibility, to be exercised at the discretion of the Executive Board and the Supervisory Board, to submit a proposal for multiple amendments to the articles of association as a single agenda item if there is a strong degree of interrelatedness between these proposed amendments. Finally, a number of provisions of the Code regarding executive remuneration do not apply to Triodos Bank, as it does not have any share plans or option schemes in place. The total costs for executive remuneration, which primarily consist of wages and pension elements only, is shown in the annual reports.

The Code has been revised in December 2016. The revised Code is first applicable for the financial year 2017.

Dutch Banking Code

The Netherlands Bankers Association (NVB) drew up the Dutch Banking Code (the Banking Code) which came into effect on 1 January 2010 and has been revised in 2014. The Banking Code is part of a package of new developments for the banking industry called 'Future Oriented Banking' introduced by the NVB. The package includes, besides the revised Banking Code, a social charter and rules of conduct associated with the Dutch bankers' oath. The revised Banking Code came into effect on 1 January 2015. It consists of a number of recommendations and principles aimed at ensuring the very best performance by banks. Triodos Bank, as a financial institution based in The Netherlands, complies with the principles of the Banking Code, with one exception: Triodos Bank chooses not to have variable remuneration based on predetermined targets or achievements, as these can enhance a culture of taking more risk. Triodos Bank monitors, identifies and addresses any occasions when it does not comply with the Banking Code on an ongoing basis, and will report on compliance with the Banking Code in its annual report.

Legal structure and ownership

All Shares are issued to the Issuer, which issues one Depository Receipt for one Share. The Issuer holds the voting rights on the Shares, in order to protect the identity and working method of Triodos Bank. As regards voting rights, there are no differences between the Shares. In the exercise of its rights, the Issuer is guided by the interests of the Depository Receipt Holders and of Triodos Bank, and by the basic principles expressed in Triodos Bank's objectives. At the end of 2016, there were 38,138 Depository Receipt Holders, with 8.5% of the Depository Receipts held by financial institutions. No Depository Receipt Holder may hold 10% or more of the Bank's issued capital. The Depository Receipts are not listed on any securities exchange. Instead, Triodos Bank maintains a platform for transactions against net asset value for the non-exchangeable Depository Receipts for registered shares.

Potential conflicts of interest

There is a potential conflict of interest between Triodos Bank and Triodos Ventures and/or Stichting Triodos Holding. This concerns three members of the Executive Board of Triodos Bank (Pierre Aeby, Peter Blom and Jellie Banga), as the first two are also members of the board of directors of Triodos Ventures and all three members of the Executive Board are also members of the board Stichting Triodos Holding. This also concerns three members of the board of the Issuer (Frans De Clerck, Mike Nawas and Josephine de Zwaan), as they are also members of the supervisory board of Stichting Triodos Holding. If such a conflict of interest does exist, extra governance measures are taken based on a conflict of interest policy in order to safeguard interests of the separate legal entities. There are no other potential conflicts between any duties of the members of the Executive Board and the Supervisory Board to Triodos Bank and their private interest and/or other duties. There is no arrangement or understanding with major shareholders, customers, suppliers or others, pursuant to which any person was selected as a member of the administrative, management or supervisory bodies or senior management. As a consequence of the entry into force of the Dutch Act on management and supervision as per 1 January 2013, the conflict of interest rules no longer result in a limitation of the external representation authority but relate to the internal decision making process. The articles of association of Triodos Bank have been amended accordingly and inter alia state that a member of the Supervisory Board may not participate in the deliberations and decision making of the Supervisory Board on a matter in relation to which he or she has a personal interest which conflicts with the interests of the company and its business. It has also been included in the articles of association that if - as a result thereof - no resolution can be adopted by the Supervisory Board, nevertheless the resolution will be adopted by the Supervisory Board. The Executive Board regulation has also been adjusted to the provisions of the new law.

SUPERVISION AND REGULATION

Introduction

This section constitutes a summary of the supervision and regulation framework relevant to Triodos Bank. The information in this section is by no means, nor is it intended to be, an exhaustive discussion of the subject matter thereof. As a financial service provider offering banking services, Triodos Bank is primarily subject to supervision and regulation of the banking industry.

National regulation

The activities carried out by Triodos Bank are subject to supervision exercised by the DNB and by the AFM, the two Dutch supervisory authorities for the financial markets. The supervision by the DNB of Triodos Bank's banking services is mainly exercised pursuant to the FSA, which implements European banking supervision legislation as further discussed below. The supervision by the AFM of Triodos Bank's securities and investment business is exercised pursuant to the FSA as well, which also implements various European legislation with respect to the activities of investment firms (securities intermediaries and portfolio managers).

The DNB exercises supervision with respect to the solvency of credit institutions, the structure of credit institutions and the group to which they belong, and the administrative organisation of credit institutions. In addition, it exercises liquidity supervision with respect to certain issues that are specific for credit institutions. Investment firms are subject to supervision by the AFM pursuant to the FSA and require a licence from the AFM to undertake their activities in The Netherlands. The FSA allows the AFM and the DNB to control and verify whether the (legal) persons subject to their supervision comply with the applicable regulations. In addition to their supervisory powers, the AFM and the DNB have various powers to enforce compliance if they determine a violation.

Triodos Bank's branches in Brussels, Frankfurt, Bristol and Madrid are authorised to operate by way of an EEA passport under the Banking Directive 2006/48/EC. These branches are also subject to local supervision in respect of their conduct of business by their host state supervisory authorities in respectively Belgium, Germany, the United Kingdom and Spain.

Duty of care (know your customer)

Pursuant to the conduct of business supervision, a financial service provider must determine a customer's financial situation, experience, knowledge and intentions, to the extent relevant for the activities it will perform for such customer. This is known as the 'know your customer' principle.

Integrity

The conduct of business supervision rules provide, inter alia, for the requirement to have insider trading regulations, regulations in relation to private investment transactions by the financial service provider's employees and requirements in relation to the hiring of new personnel.

Transparency

Pursuant to the FSA, financial services providers and intermediaries must comply with disclosure and transparency requirements with respect to (i) identity, (ii) cost of services and (iii) services and products offered. In addition, financial services providers and intermediaries will be required to be transparent in respect of costs and commissions.

Regulations applicable to the Issuer

Currently, the Issuer itself is not regulated directly, but as the holding company of a licensed credit institution, it is subject to indirect supervision which the DNB and the AFM exercise on a consolidated level.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE DEPOSITORY RECEIPTS AND UNDERLYING SHARES

Rights attached to the Depository Receipts

The Depository Receipts have been created under Dutch law, are denominated in euros and will be issued under Dutch law with the cooperation of Triodos Bank. The Issuer issues one Depository Receipt for each Share. Depository Receipts can also be issued in the form of fractions thereof, which fractions shall be rounded to three (3) decimal places and the total of which fractions equals one (1) Depository Receipt. Depository Receipt Holders have the rights which Dutch law attributes to the fact that the Depository Receipts have been issued with the cooperation of Triodos Bank. The rights attached to the Depository Receipts relate to, inter alia, the dividends and liquidation payments made payable on the Depository Receipts and the right to attend the General Meetings and speak at such meetings. Depository Receipt Holders do not have the right to vote at the General Meetings. For a more comprehensive description of the rights attached to the Depository Receipts, reference is made to the articles of association of Triodos Bank, the articles of association of the Issuer and the Terms of Administration.

Depository Receipts Holders have a pre-emption right proportionate to their share that can be limited or excluded by the Executive Board.

The Depository Receipts are non-convertible. Non-convertible means that a Depository Receipt cannot be converted into a Share. The Depository Receipts are registered in the Register and are registered in the name of the Depository Receipt Holder. There are no costs attached to registration. Triodos Bank does charge a transaction fee of maximum 0.5% for the execution of buy and sell orders relating to Depository Receipts (with a minimum fee of EUR 5 for subscriptions made through the Spanish branch and GBP 5 for subscriptions made through the UK branch).

Meeting of Depository Receipt Holders

In a number of situations, the articles of association of the Issuer and the Terms of Administration require decision-making by the meeting of Depository Receipt Holders. For example, amendment by the Issuer of its articles of association and Terms of Administration is only possible subject to approval of the meeting of Depository Receipt Holders and the approval of Triodos Bank. Furthermore, the meeting of Depository Receipt Holders appoints the members of the board of the Issuer, on the basis of a binding nomination by the board of the Issuer. Triodos Bank must approve the nomination of the board members of the Issuer.

In a meeting of Depository Receipt Holders, each Depository Receipt Holder has as many votes as he has whole Depository Receipts, with a maximum of 1,000 votes. No vote can be cast on a fraction of a Depository Receipt.

For a more comprehensive description of the issues for which decision-making is required by the meeting of Depository Receipt Holders, reference is made to the articles of association of the Issuer and the Terms of Administration.

Characteristics of the Shares

The underlying Shares have been created under Dutch law and are denominated in euros. The Shares are registered shares and the register is kept at the head office of Triodos Bank at Nieuweroordweg 1, 3704 EC, Zeist, The Netherlands. Triodos Bank is in charge of keeping the records of the Shares in the register. The Shares are not freely transferable. The Shares will only be transferred between Triodos Bank and the Issuer in the context of the issue of Depository Receipts in accordance with the Terms of Administration.

Rights attached to the Shares

The Shares give the right, inter alia, to the dividends made payable on the Shares, and to liquidation payments. In addition, each Share gives the right to cast one vote at the General Meeting.

Shareholders have a pre-emption right proportionate to their shareholding. On 19 May 2017 the General Meeting of Triodos Bank has given the authority to the Executive Board for a period of 18 months to exclude this pre-emption right.

There are no special procedures for exercising the rights attached to the Shares.

Meeting of Shareholders

At least one General Meeting will be held annually in accordance with Article 14 of Triodos Bank's articles of association. Triodos Bank has only one Shareholder: the Issuer. In the exercise of its voting rights, the Issuer will be guided by the interests of the Depository Receipt Holder, the interests of Triodos Bank and the basic principles expressed in the objects of Triodos Bank.

Trading and transfers

The Depository Receipts are not listed on a securities exchange but may be traded. Triodos Bank maintains a platform for transactions against net asset value in Depository Receipts, whereby the price is determined on the basis of the net asset value as described under 'The Offering - Issue Price'. During certain periods, the price of the Depository Receipts may be fixed for campaigning purposes. This will be posted on the country websites. For the execution of buy and sell orders relating to Depository Receipts, a transaction fee of maximum 0.5% is charged by Triodos Bank (with a minimum fee of EUR 5 for subscriptions made through the Spanish branch and GBP 5 for subscriptions made through the UK branch).

Discounts on the purchase price can be available. Discounts on the transaction fee can be available to certain investors in certain periods. These discounts will be made public on the country websites of Triodos Bank.

If Depository Receipts are offered for sale, Triodos Bank will give priority to these Depository Receipts when trading. Triodos Bank will only issue new Depository Receipts if no Depository Receipts have been offered for sale at that time.

In principle the transfer of Depository Receipts is not allowed if and insofar as the acquiring party alone, or together with one or more group companies, or on the basis of an arrangement to cooperate together with one or more others, directly or indirectly, is a holder or will become a holder as a result of the transfer, of a nominal amount of Depository Receipts jointly corresponding with ten percent (10%) or more of the total issued capital of Triodos Bank. At variance with the above provisions, Depository Receipts may only be acquired by a Depository Receipt Holder who alone or jointly with others is the holder of Depository Receipts jointly corresponding with ten percent (10%) or more of the issued capital of Triodos Bank as a result of a partial or full lifting of the above provision, exclusively upon issue and at most up to such number that, after issue, the percentage of the corresponding issued capital of Triodos Bank which said Depository Receipt Holders holds alone or jointly with others by means of their Depository Receipts, is no more than the percentage held before the issue.

The Depository Receipt Holder who alone or together with one or more group companies, and/or on the basis of a co-operation arrangement with one or more natural persons or legal entities, directly or indirectly holds or becomes a holder of a nominal amount of Depository Receipts that together correspond to three per cent (3%) or more of the entire issued capital of Triodos Bank, including the Shares that Triodos Bank holds in its capital, shall be obliged to notify the Executive Board thereof within thirty days.

For a more comprehensive description of trading and transferring Depository Receipts, reference is made to Article 5 of the Terms of Administration.

Dividend policy

It is de policy of Triodos Bank to have a pay-out ratio of between 50% and 70% to deliver stability. There is however no obligation for Triodos Bank to pay any dividends; the payment of any dividend and the moment of such dividend payment is the absolute and sole discretion of Triodos Bank at all times. No distribution shall be made in any event where this would exceed or cause to exceed the amount of 'distributable items' as defined in the Capital Requirements Regulation (no. 575/2013) available for payment of such dividend. During the financial years 2014, 2015 and 2016 the dividend paid out per Depository Receipt was EUR 1.95. Pursuant to article 16, paragraph 5 of the articles of association and article 3, paragraph 3 of the Terms of Administration, it is possible to make dividends available in cash or in whole or in part in the form of Shares and for the Depository Receipt Holder in the form of Depository Receipts. All dividend payments are of a non-cumulative nature.

Payment of dividends and withholding tax

In case dividends on the Shares will be paid, these dividends are payable at the latest four weeks after the annual accounts have been adopted. Triodos Bank will withhold 15% (2016) Dutch dividend tax on the cash dividend. After receipt of the net dividend (after withholding tax), the Issuer will make the net dividend payable to the Depository Receipt Holders at the latest eight days after receipt. The Issuer will transfer the net dividend free of charge to a bank account specified by the Depository Receipt Holder or by cheque.

In respect of the other countries in which the Depository Receipts are being offered, the following applies; Belgium: Cash dividends and stock dividends will also be subject to a local withholding tax (at a rate of 30%). Germany: All revenues generated by Depository Receipts (be it stock or cash dividends, and/or income on the sale) are subject to local tax in Germany.

In general, investors are invited to seek appropriate advice on their specific (local) tax situation.

There are no dividend restrictions and procedures for non-resident holders.

Dividends that have not been claimed within five years after they have been made payable will go to Triodos Bank.

The Issuer assumes responsibility for the withholding of taxes at the source for the countries where the Offering is being made and where the withholding of taxes is required by law.

The way to subscribe to Depository Receipts differs per country. In all countries either an appropriateness test or suitability test forms part of the procedure to subscribe to Depository Receipts. A subscription requires that an application form is signed and completed by the applicant and sent together with a cheque or bank transfer for processing by the UK branch. The Offering is made in pounds sterling but the price of the Depository Receipts is denominated in euro. As a result Depository Receipt Holders are affected by exchange rate risk. In particular, investors should note that dividend payments made to UK residents are converted into sterling from euro at the exchange rate on the dividend payment date. In addition when selling some or all of the Depository Receipts, conversion from euro to sterling takes place at the time of the sale.

THE OFFERING

Maximum number of Depository Receipts available for issue

On the date of this Prospectus, the authorised capital amounts to EUR 1,500,000,000, divided into 30,000,000 Shares with a nominal value of EUR 50 each. The Offering consists of a public offering being made to the general public in Belgium, Germany, The Netherlands, Spain and the United Kingdom. On the date of this Prospectus, 4,000,000 Shares are available for issue, with an aggregate nominal value of EUR 200,000,000. As one Depository Receipt is issued for one Share, the maximum number of Depository Receipts that could be issued on this date is also 4,000,000. With reference to Section 2:97 of the Dutch Civil Code, it is hereby expressly announced that if it is only possible to issue a lower number of Shares than the maximum number of Shares, and by the same token, Depository Receipts, such lower number will be issued.

The Depository Receipts and underlying Shares will be issued continually, under exclusion of the preemptive rights of the existing Depository Receipt Holders. The existing holdings of the Depository Receipt Holders will be diluted proportionate to the amount of the new Depository Receipts issued. In the event of issues up to the maximum issue, the dilution will be 27%.

Issue Price

Triodos Bank will on a daily basis determine the Issue Price of the Depository Receipts based on a financial model that derives the calculated net asset value (NAV) per Depository Receipt. The NAV of Triodos Bank is equal to the book value of the assets of Triodos Bank minus the book value of the liabilities of Triodos Bank. Net Asset Value is a generally accepted accounting concept which is presented as a single definable entity. However, it concerns only a representation of the underlying reality which always carries elements of uncertainty. The NAV per Depository Receipt is calculated by dividing the NAV of Triodos Bank by the number of Depository Receipts issued. The current results which arise after the last net asset value calculation will be determined on the basis of the financial administration. The Issue Price per Depository Receipt will be rounded to whole euros, whereby values of 0.5 euros or more are rounded up. A recovery price procedure has been determined in case a mistake has been made in the calculation of the Issue Price of the Depository Receipts. During certain periods, the Issue Price may be fixed for campaigning purposes. This will be posted on the country websites.

The applicable Issue Price can be requested from Triodos Bank and is also published on its country websites.

Discounts on the purchase price can be available in certain periods. Discounts on the transaction fee can be made available to certain investors in certain periods. These discounts will be made public on the country websites of Triodos Bank.

Transaction fee

Transaction fee of maximum 0.5% will be charged on the issue of Depository Receipts transactions, (with a minimum fee of EUR 5 for subscriptions made through the Spanish branch and GBP 5 for subscriptions made through the UK branch). These transaction costs are calculated over the total price of the transaction, i.e. the Issue Price times the number of Depository Receipts. Discounts on the transaction fee can be made available to certain investors in certain periods. These discounts will be made public on the country websites of Triodos Bank.

The transaction fee will first be paid out of the total amount received upon issue of a Depository Receipt. EUR 50 will then be paid up as the nominal value of the underlying Share. The remaining amount will be booked as premium. The premium forms part of Triodos Bank's equity and is taken into account when determining the net asset value. The premium can be used to effect a dividend to the Depository Receipt Holders in Depository Receipts (stock dividend).

Allocation to the subscribers

Allocations will be made by the Executive Board on behalf of the Issuer. The allocation policy will take into account the importance of a balanced spread of the holdings of Depository Receipts. In this respect, the Executive Board will be guided by the provisions of article 5 paragraph 3 of the Terms of Administration. This means that it will limit the number of Depository Receipts held directly or indirectly by any one Depository Receipt Holder to a maximum of just under 10% of the total number of issued Depository Receipts. The Executive Board is authorised on behalf of the Issuer to refuse subscriptions on Depository Receipts or to only allocate a limited number. In addition, the Executive Board can resolve at any time to limit, suspend or exclude the issue of Depository Receipts. Any resolution to close the issue will be announced on the country websites (as defined on page 1 of this Prospectus).

Register

The Depository Receipts are delivered to the subscriber by registration in the Register, which is maintained by Triodos Bank. Triodos Bank records the registration of the Depository Receipts in the Register. After allocation the subscriber will receive proof of registration in the Register. By registering, the subscriber confirms that he is a party to the deed effecting the transfer of the Depository Receipt. No costs are attached to furnishing the proof of registration.

The Depository Receipts are not delivered by means of a deed executed in the presence of a civil-law notary.

Repayments

Any excess funds which Triodos Bank has received in relation to a limitation or exclusion of allocation will be repaid to the account from which these funds were received. Repayments will not include interest.

Vesting date

The rights attached to the Depository Receipts included in this Offering vest as per the date that the Issue Price has been paid into the equity of Triodos Bank. As of that moment the subscription can no longer be revoked.

No listing

There is no intention to request a listing of the Depository Receipts on any securities exchange.

Intentions to subscribe

So far as Triodos Bank and the Issuer are aware, no members of the administrative, management or supervisory bodies intend to subscribe in the Offering.

ANNEX I

Profit forecast 2017

In the annual report 2016 and in this Prospectus it is mentioned that, excluding unforeseen circumstances, Triodos Bank expects to achieve a net profit for 2017. This expectation is based on the principal assumptions described below. These assumptions concern both factors which Triodos Bank can influence and factors outside its influence.

Factors Triodos Bank can influence are the volume of funds entrusted, loan volume and equity. For funds entrusted and for loans Triodos Bank can, to a certain extent, also influence the interest revenues and expenses. The interest rates are however partly outside Triodos Bank's influence as these are also based on market interest rates. In addition, Triodos Bank is able to influence the volume of funds under management and its return.

Factors outside Triodos Bank's influence are:

- Unforeseen events such as force majeure: for the purpose of the forecast, Triodos Bank assumes that no material unforeseen events will occur that could result in material or lasting constraints on the ongoing operations such as force majeure (e.g. fire, floods, hurricanes, storms, earthquakes or terrorist attacks), strikes, exceptional macroeconomic events or war;
- Legislative and other regulatory measures (amongst which related to financial services, taxation and subsidy- and sustainability schemes): Triodos Bank has included already known changes to rules and regulations, but assumes that besides these known changes, there will be no or only insignificant changes in the current regulatory framework with material effect (including fiscal law);
- Monetary policy Central Banks.

Basis of preparation

The profit forecast for 2017 is prepared in accordance with the accounting principles as described in the 2016 financial statements of Triodos Bank. The forecast is based on the trends of the actual performance of Triodos Bank in recent years (2015 and 2016); on the actual result of the first quarter 2017 (as from 1 January till 31 March 2017) and contains the expected developments of balance sheet and profit and loss accounts (up until 31 December 2017), taking into account the following assumptions:

- Given the growth of Triodos Bank in recent years and the current market circumstances where Triodos Bank still recognises a growing need for sustainable banking, it foresees the following developments:
 - An increase of equity in a range between 15 to 20%, mainly due to the offering of new Depository Receipts in 2017;
 - The funds entrusted will increase further in a range of 5 to 10% on the back of growth of the client base. The increased funds entrusted and equity will be used to enlarge the loan portfolio in the range of 15 to 20%. Assuming that there is sufficient room for enlargement of the loan portfolio;
 - The funds under management are expected to increase in the range of 15 to 25 % in 2017.
- The interest and commission rates used to calculate the result are mainly based on commercial and market rates known at the time of the publication of this Prospectus.
- The interest margins and commission income in the current portfolio known at the time of publication of the Prospectus, together with the known changes to the portfolio in the near future, are taken as a basis for the income predictions included in the profit forecast.
- Based on internal investigation, Triodos Bank assumed that it will face 'interest-risk' related to the current negative interest rate environment. However, as interest to be paid to saving clients will not exceed interest to be received from lending clients, Triodos Bank assumed this risk to be limited based on the conditions (e.g. floors) set in our lending contracts;

- The growth of Triodos Bank as well as (limited) indexation of staff and other administrative expenses will result in higher operating expenses. This increase however is closely monitored and Triodos Bank makes a continual effort on cost control and efficiency. Consequently, it is expected that the expenses will increase in a range at 10 to 15%.
- The growth of Triodos Bank as well as the current market situation will result in further bad debt provisions. For 2017 the addition to the provisions are estimated to 15 basis points (0.15% value adjustments for bad debts in relation to the average loan portfolio) based on the long term loss rates within Triodos Bank and assessment of potential risks in the loan book.
- Tax rates used are the rates known at the moment of publication of this Prospectus.

Principal uncertain factors recognised are the value adjustments for bad debts and developments in market interest rates.

Triodos Banks' strategy focuses on long-term resilience over short-term profit. Consequently, Triodos Bank maintains a relative high equity base and has a substantial liquidity surplus. This liquidity surplus in combination with lowering margins caused by the current monetary policy, leads to pressure on interest income, resulting in a lower return on equity than previous years.

Excluding potential effects of Brexit and excluding incidental and exceptional items outside of the normal operation of the bank, Triodos Bank expects the return on equity to be in a range between 3 and 5%. Triodos Bank expects 2017's return to be at the lower end of this band. This expectation is in line with the expectations as presented in the annual report 2016 on page 28.

These assumptions result in the following forecast of the income and net profit over the financial year 2017:

Income	between EUR 240 and 250 million (2016: EUR 218 million)
Net profit	between EUR 30 and 40 million (2016: EUR 29.3 million)

In addition please note that there will usually be differences between the forecasted and actual results because events and circumstances, especially those beyond the influence of Triodos Bank, frequently do not occur as expected, and those differences may be material.

Sensitivity

Triodos Bank notes that a 10 basis points increase in loan loss rates would negatively impact the forecasted net profit with approximately EUR 4 million.
